Communion of Saints Part I: Do the Saints Answer Prayers?

Christ "taught us that prayer is necessary, that it should be humble, vigilant, persevering, confident in the Father's goodness, single-minded and in conformity with God's nature", so says the General Instruction of the Liturgy of the Hours (GILH, n. 5). The average Catholic, however, and perhaps not a few priests and religious, tend to find such fervent and devout prayer rather challenging. Nonetheless, the faithful of Christ are called to carry on His ministry on earth, to be the light of the world and the salt of the earth, to be in fact Christ in this world; by His example and teaching "the divine teacher showed that prayer was the soul of his messianic ministry . . ." That being the case, the Catholic Church has always recognized that prayer — the life of prayer — must be the soul of our apostolic mission in this world.

Jesus taught us clearly that "If you ask anything in my name, I will do it" (John 14:14), and "If you remain in me and my words remain in you, ask for whatever you want and it will be done for you" (John 15:7); or "Therefore I tell you, all that you ask for in prayer, believe that you will receive it and it shall be yours" (Mark 11:24). The Apostles who first heard these words and handed them on to us also taught us that we ought to "pray without ceasing" (1st Thessalonians 5:17), and "We have this confidence in God, that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us. And . . . we know that what we have asked him for is ours" (1st John 5:17).

It is here that we find great strength in the prayers of our Catholic brothers and sisters. We cannot answer each other's prayers—for only God can answer prayer—but we can certainly pray for each other and stand together as we storm heaven with our supplications and intercessions. It has been a constant teaching of the Catholic tradition that we who struggle along "in this vale of tears" not only have the benefit of our prayers for each other, but we also have the benefit of the prayers of those who have already achieved the beatific vision in heaven. The Saints in heaven are human beings, and they cannot answer our prayers anymore than we can answer each other's prayers. Although the Saints have left this life, they are not dead, certainly not to God, for "all live unto him" as Jesus said (Luke 20:38); and if they are alive unto God they are still a part of the community of faith.

When we solicit the prayers of the Saints and ask for their assistance as we storm heaven with our petitions, it is their holiness and purity that makes up for our lack of fervor and devotion. If through our weakness and human frailty we cannot be as "humble, vigilant, persevering, confident in the Father's goodness" in our prayers as our faith requires of us, it is nonetheless certain that the Saints, who achieved that heroic virtue in life are now in an even more enviable position in heaven. If our prayers are too flawed to pull down God's blessings upon our needs, they become sufficient when joined with the prayers of our patrons and allies in heaven. In this way, we on earth become the beneficiaries of the heroic life and merits of the Saints when we prayerfully tap the treasure vaults of "The Church Triumphant" in heaven.

5 Practical Ways to Pray More in the New Year

~by Philip Kosloski, staff writer at Aleteia.com (abridged)~

Incorporating more time for prayer is not easy task, so to help you get closer to your spiritual goals, here are five practical tips that can give you a head-start on making 2017 your best spiritual year ever:

1) Believe in your goal and in God—You are a son or daughter of God and he is with you at your side. You can do it! If we open ourselves to God, he will guide us and give us the strength we need. We need to have faith that God will be there for us and that we can do the impossible. Above all else, faith is a gift given by God. So like all gifts, ask for it! Ask God to increase your devotional fervor.

2) Recall what has worked and what hasn't—In the spiritual life, there are bound to be highs and lows; times when you felt fully alive and times when you felt dead in the water. Look back at the past and see what worked and when you felt "fully alive." You may notice some patterns that may be useful or that you may want to replicate in the present.

And don't be afraid to start small. Even as small as beginning and ending the day with a Sign of the Cross and a "Glory Be." Of such small beginnings, have saints arisen.

3) Are you a "rooster" or an "owl?" - For most Americans, life between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. is uncontrollable. Whether we commute to an office, stay at home with the kids, or have been retired for 10 years, the daylight hours are typically filled to capacity.

This gives us two primary options for an extended amount of prayer time: morning or evening. These two blocks of time are often "blank slates" and we typically have complete control over what happens. Do we look at Facebook until 1:00 in the morning, or do we shut everything off and pray?

On the other hand, we may have much more time in the morning and would gladly wake up at 5:00 a.m. to pray for a half hour. The main point is that we are either "morning persons" or "night persons," "roosters" or "owls," and that self-knowledge will help us understand which part of our day will be the most successful for carving out more time for prayer.

4) Think "minutes" not "hours" - Author Gary Jansen wrote a book recently entitled The 15-Minute Prayer Solution: How One Percent of Your Day Can Transform Your Life, and in it he wrote:

"Did you know that there are 1,440 minutes in a day? It's true. I did the math. Did you also know that one percent of all that time is 14 minutes and 24 seconds? What would happen if you made a conscious decision, every day, to exercise your soul by giving roughly 15 minutes of your time over to God? Just one tiny percent of your life. Would your life change? Mine did."

5) Write it down! - Our minds are so full of information that it is extremely easy to forget what we "promised" to do. That is why we must be deliberate and write down our daily schedule and make prayer officially part of it. We must block out a specific time frame every day when the only thing we do is pray. Write it down in BIG BOLD LETTERS to help solidify it in your memory. In summary, we must be deliberate about putting more prayer into our everyday life and give it the importance it deserves.

Liturgical Word of the Week

con·sub·stan·tial / ˌkənsəb 'stan(t)SH(ə) adjective,

1. of the same substance or essence (used especially of the three persons of the Trinity in Christian theology): "Christ is consubstantial with the Father"

Martin Luther King Jr.

Jan. 15, 1929 – April 4, 1968

During the less than 13 years of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s leadership of the modern American Civil Rights Movement, from December, 1955 until April 4, 1968, African Americans achieved more genuine progress toward racial equality in America than the previous 350 years had produced. Dr. King is widely regarded as America's pre-eminent advocate of nonviolence and one of the greatest nonviolent leaders in world history.

Drawing inspiration from both his Christian faith and the peaceful teachings of Mahatma Gandhi, Dr. King led a nonviolent movement in the late 1950's and '60s to achieve legal equality for African-Americans in the United States. While others were advocating for freedom by "any means necessary," including violence, Martin Luther King, Jr. used the power of words and acts of nonviolent resistance, such as protests, grassroots organizing, and civil disobedience to achieve seemingly-impossible goals. He went on to lead similar campaigns against poverty and international conflict, always maintaining fidelity to his principles that men and women everywhere, regardless of color or creed, are equal members of the human family.

Dr. King's "I Have a Dream" speech, Nobel Peace Prize lecture and "Letter from a Birmingham Jail" are among the most revered orations and writings in the English language. His accomplishments are now taught to American children of all races, and his teachings are studied by scholars and students worldwide. He is the only non-president to have a national holiday dedicated in his honor, and is the only non-president memorialized on the Great Mall in the nation's capitol. He is memorialized in hundreds of statues, parks, streets, squares, churches and other public facilities around the world as a leader whose teachings are increasingly-relevant to the progress of humankind.

To be a Christian without prayer is no more possible than to be alive without breathing.

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will be observed Jan. 18–25 with the theme of "Reconciliation – The Love of Christ Compels Us." Wednesday, Jan. 18 initiates the week with a workshop, procession and workshop occurring at three locations. The workshop will be held from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Westminster Presbyterian Church in downtown Sacramento, followed by a hosted meal at 5 p.m. at the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament for workshop participants. A procession will commence at 6:30 p.m. on the steps of the Cathedral, leading to the worship service, which takes place at St. John's Lutheran Church, located at 1701 L St., at 7 p.m.

The Graymoor Ecumenical and Interreligious Institute, a ministry of the Franciscan Friars of the Atonement, describes this commemoration on their website: "The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity gives Christians an annual opportunity to continue their quest for the unity they already share in Christ. It is also a time to gather in praise of the Triune God and to deepen the understanding of the ecumenical movement. By joining in this annual celebration Christians raise their voices, hands and hearts to God seeking the fulfillment of the prayer of Jesus, the Son of God, "that they all may be one."

The events in Sacramento are sponsored by the North State Ecumenical Conference and registration at <http://www.nsec.org/WPCU2017Registration.php> is required for the Jan. 18 workshop and dinner. Read more at www.scd.org.

But Chisholm's style raises eyebrows among his superiors, especially Bishop Angus Mealy (Vincent Price).
